Generated: 11 Oct 2026, 16:30 · Rules version: MP Bhumi Vikas Rules, 2012 - consolidated up to 6 March 2025 (official English PDF)

Later amendment (28 August 2026, Rule 2(5)(c)): Rule 2(5)(c) was amended on 28 August 2026. For plots up to 500 sq m, the local authority may permit construction or reconstruction where it conforms to the existing land use in the approved Development Plan. Such work does not need separate development permission under Rule 2(5)(a), provided it meets the Development Plan's norms. Secondary source - check against the official gazette.

1. Case summary

Item	Value
Front open space	3 m
Rear open space	2.5 m
FAR	1.25
Max built-up area	250 sq m
Max height	12.5 m
Building permission fee (total)	Rs 3,250 (250 sq m)
Development permission fee (total)	Rs 1,00,000

2. Questions and answers

Question: My plot is 200 sq m on a 9 m road. How much gap do I leave at the front, how many floors can I build, and what fee do I pay?

Answered from the rules

Front gap: at least 3.0 m, because the road is 9 m wide. Other required open spaces are a rear gap of at least 2.5 m, and side gaps that depend on the building type (row-type: none; semi-detached: 3.0 m on one side).

Floors: the rules set a height limit and a total floor area limit, not a number of floors. The building can be up to 12.5 m high. Going taller needs a 12 m+ road and a plot of 1,000 sq m+ (Rule 42 Table 4), so it is not possible here. With FAR 1.25, the total built-up area on all floors can be at most 250 sq m. The Development Plan for the town may set a different FAR.

Fee: this assumes the full 250 sq m. The application fee is Rs 250 (Rs 1.00 per sq m) and the permission fee is Rs 3,000 (slab 201–300 sq m), so the total is Rs 3,250. The exact fee depends on the built-up area the citizen actually proposes.

Ask the citizen: Please ask: (1) the proposed total built-up area, for the exact fee; (2) the plot frontage and building type (semi-detached or row), for the side gaps.

A secondary summary (TeamLease RegTech) says Rule 2(5)(c) was amended on 28 August 2026. Under it, the local authority may permit construction or reconstruction on plots up to 500 sq m that conform to the Development Plan, without separate development permission. This must be checked against the official gazette.

Question: And if the road were 12 m wide instead?

Answered from the rules

With a 12 m road, only the front gap changes: it becomes at least 3.6 m (it was 3.0 m on the 9 m road). The rest stays the same for this 200 sq m plot:

- Rear gap: at least 2.5 m.
- Height: up to 12.5 m. A 12 m road meets the road condition for a taller building (12.5 to 30 m), but that also needs a plot of at least 1000 sq m.
- Total floor area: FAR 1.25, so at most 250 sq m on all floors. The town's Development Plan may set a different FAR.
- Fee for the full 250 sq m: application fee Rs 250 plus permission fee Rs 3,000, so Rs 3,250 in total.

Ask the citizen: Ask for the built-up area the citizen actually proposes, to get the exact fee. Ask for the plot frontage and the building type (semi-detached or row) to fix the side gaps.

Question: मेरा प्लॉट 200 वर्ग मीटर का है और सामने 9 मीटर चौड़ी सड़क है। आगे कितनी जगह खाली छोड़नी होगी?

Answered from the rules

सामने (फ्रंट) कम से कम 3.0 मीटर खुली जगह छोड़नी होगी। यह नियम 56(1)(a) के अनुसार है, क्योंकि सड़क 9 मीटर चौड़ी है ("9.0 मीटर तक" वाली श्रेणी)। यह 12.5 मीटर तक ऊँचे आवासीय भवन पर लागू होता है।

Ask the citizen: यह जवाब 12.5 मीटर तक ऊँचे भवन के लिए है। नागरकि से प्रस्तावति भवन की ऊँचाई पूछ लें।
